Market Expectation

China's vast consumer base and rich food culture have created a diverse edible oil market. In 2023, domestic consumption reached 36.92 million tons, with per capita consumption at 25.5 kilograms. Common oils like peanut, soybean, and rapeseed have shown stable growth, while nutrient-rich emerging oils are the fastest-growing.

The increasing health awareness has driven edible oil consumption into a healthy phase, with camellia oil, olive oil, sunflower seed oil, and flaxseed oil maintaining high growth rates over the past 5-10 years. As health consciousness deepens, demand for healthy oils will continue to rise, offering significant development opportunities for health-focused edible oils.

Why exhibit

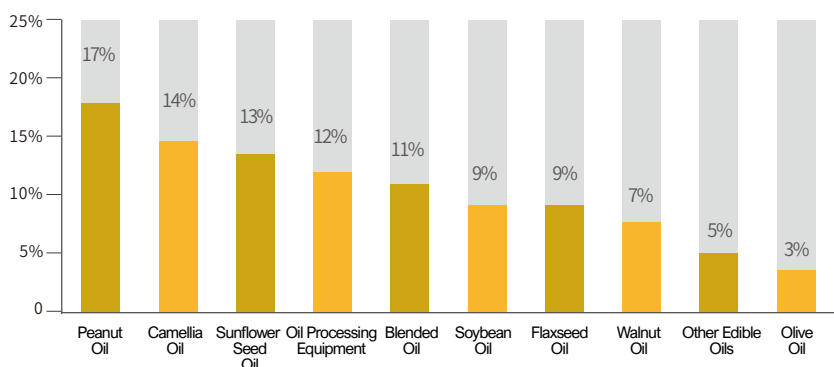

1 Supported by channel distributors, end buyers, professional service providers, and both domestic and international industry associations, the exhibition creates a comprehensive trade service chain, enabling efficient communication and cooperation within the industry.

3 A three-day trade forum for industry professionals will feature leaders and experts sharing the latest edible oil trends and market information. This event offers valuable opportunities for mutual learning, communication, and networking.

2 We specialize in one-on-one match-making, ensuring precise business connections. By facilitating pre-exhibition communication, we understand buyers' needs and invite them to meet exhibitors at booths or designated areas, enhancing efficiency and boosting the success of transactions.

4 A special Edible Oil Awards ceremony will be held to promote and recognize innovative products in the global edible oil industry. It brings together outstanding businesses and provides a platform for communication and collaboration, aiming for mutual success.
